SOME ASSIGNMENT — A couple of New York ambulance attendants enjoy the assignment of their lives as they help Marilyn Monroe into her apartment after her discharge from a hospital. Miss Monroe underwent surgery for the removal of her gall bladder June 29. None of her external assets was altered.

Forest Fire Kills Two in California

MADERA, Calif. (AP)—A forest fire raging out of control near Yosemite National Park has killed at least two persons, burned out two towns and sent hundreds fleeing for safety.

The blaze by early today had consumed some 25,000 acres of brush and timber. It destroyed the community of Nipinnawasse, sparing only a school and one of 60 homes.

Two miles south, it raced through the tiny town of Ahwahnee where it trapped and killed a couple fleeing by car. They were George Kipp and his wife, Etta, both about 60, of Ahwahnee.

An unidentified man and his two grandsons were reported missing. Robert Voss, assistant fire prevention officer for the State Division of Forestry, said a search was on for them but they were feared lost.

U.S. Highway 41, the year-around route to Yosemite, was clogged with autos of fleeing persons.

Fire fighters at Ahwahnee said only 12 homes were left there. At least 50 were destroyed.

Today the flames, which spread over a five-mile front, swept to the edge of Oakhurst, a community of about 3,000.

Voss said reports reaching the forestry division's communications center in Fresno indicated the town had been saved.

"But there's no telling what will happen. This fire is a long way from being under control," he said.

A second major fire that had also consumed 25,000 acres was reported being brought under control about 10 miles northwest of the Madera County blaze.

Farm Bureau to Hear Alford

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Rep. Dale Alford, D-Ark., will be among speakers at the Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation's 14th annual Officers and Leaders Conference here July 31-Aug. 1.

Farmers to Elect Their Committees

Farmers of Hempstead County will hold elections in July and August to select farmer-committeemen to administer farm programs in the county next year, according to H. B. Gilbert, Chairman of the ASC. Committeemen will be responsible for the administration of such programs as the Commodity and Facility Loan Programs, Agricultural Conservation, Soil Bank, Feed Grain Program and Acreage Allotments and Marketing.

Two elections will be held, according to Mr. Gilbert, first, an election of community committeemen, three regular serve in the absence of a regular member.

In explaining the election procedure, the chairman said that the election of community committeemen will be by mail ballot and the election of county committeemen will be in a county convention of delegates elected by community committeemen and delegate to the county convention will be nominated by petitions and by present community committeemen. Delegates to the county convention will be elected at the community elections, and, in turn, will attend a county convention for the election of county committeemen.

Candidates for community committee may be named by petition signed by ten eligible producers in a community. More than one candidate may be named.

There must be at least ten candidates nominated for election in each community, either by petition or by present community committeemen. The five candidates receiving the highest number of votes will be, in order, chairman of the community committee and delegate to the county convention; vice-chairman of the community committee and alternate delegate; regular member; first alternate member and second alternate member.

After the community committee elections, the delegates to the county convention will meet and elect three regular members and two alternates to serve as members of the county committee.

Petitions for nomination as candidates for community committeemen must be received in the county ASC office by July 14. In addition to candidates nominated by petition in each community, the community committeemen will nominate additional candidates to increase the number to at least ten.

Ballots will be mailed to all eligible farmers in the various communities not later than July 21 and must be mailed to or returned in person to the Hempstead ASC County Office not later than August 3. Eligible voters may vote at the county office.

The county convention to elect county committeemen will be held at the county office.

Bearden Factory Founder Dies

CAMDEN, Ark. (AP) — Arlis Cross, 53, of Bearden, co-founder of the Bear Brand Rolling Co., died today in a hospital here.

Mr. Cross and the late J. W. Gossett founded Bear Brand one of this area's major industries, 15 years ago.

Funeral services will be held Thursday.

Council to Try for Formula on Surplus Funds

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Legislative Council will meet Monday to decide if it will take in the chore of recommending how surplus funds and other money will be used in a state construction program.

Also to be taken up by the Council, the legislature's out-of-session branch, is the question of whether the Arkansas Children's Colony at Conway should be expanded or several institutions for retarded children constructed over the state.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus met Tuesday with nine members of the Legislative Council, including Sen. Russell H. Ford of Siloam Springs, its chairman.

The council is expected to agree to take up the matter of the construction program and begin hearings about Aug. 1.

Faubus is expected to call the legislature into session about the middle of August to reappropriate funds from the invalidated $14.5 million omnibus construction act and formulate a building program to replace the proposed $80 million construction bond plan rejected by the voters June 27.

Among appropriations in the omnibus bill was an $800,000 fund for cities. Faubus said Tuesday that the money should be reappropriated or $500,000 given the counties by the 1961 legislature should be taken away.

Faubus said it would take possibly a week to prepare the order calling the special session of the legislature. Such an order must be carefully written, he said.

The governor indicated one thing certain to be in the call involved salary reductions for the Carroll County tax assessor and circuit clerk which were contained in general salary acts based on population ceilings and floors.

Faubus said a proposed amendment to the salary act by Carroll County Rep. F. A. Teague would restore the two officials to their original salaries.

Faubus said he had received at least a half dozen suggestions for other items to be included in the call of the session.

The question of the size of the Children's Colony was raised by Sen. Robert Harvey of Swifton Tuesday.

Harvey asked the Legislative Council if it might not be wiser to establish several such institutions rather than expand the present facility.

Funds for additional construction at the Colony were contained in the omnibus act.

"The colony is not a complete unit at this time and won't be for some time to come," A. Nils Florentz of Little Rock, chairman of the Colony board, said in remarking that he thought decentralization of the facility is premature.

"We continually urge communities where possible to educate these youngsters in their home communities," he said. "We are concerned at the Colony with those children who need far more."

Judge Suspends Sentence of Freedom Riders When They Promise to Return to Homes

No Bollworm in Three Counties

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today that three Arkansas counties—Clay, Craighead and Mississippi—will be removed Thursday from a pink bollworm regulated area.

The department said surveys in the three counties have shown an absence of the insect, a serious enemy of cotton.

The regulations restrict the movement of materials into and out of regulated areas.

Kiwanis Hears About Life Expectancy

United States has risen from age 49 to 70 since the year of 1900, Dr. Lynn Harris told Hope Kiwanis club at its noon luncheon meeting yesterday at Hotel Barlow.

Much of this has been brought about by improved public health programs, new drugs, modern transportation and communication, better equipped clinics and hospitals, better food, new and better techniques in treatment and surgery.

Dr. Harris spoke at length on the new miracle or wonder drugs, and said that 35 percent of the drugs being used today were years ago.

He told of the constant research that was going on daily in laboratories in an effort to stamp out diseases. About 170 millions of dollars was spent in 1958 on research and this year's figure will top the 190-million-dollar mark.

The major factor in the price of prescriptions calling for new drugs depend upon the research behind it, the speaker pointed out.

America's mental hospital population is now declining for the first time in history . . . and the orphan child is becoming rare because of the increased life span of parents.

Troy Sheldon was introduced as a new member of the club, and guests were Joe Spikes of Camden, Percy Purifoy of Texarkana, Lawrence Abbrington of Hope, Charlie Burchett rejoined the club after several months absence.

Canal Survey Is Underway

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Mapping and contour work is under way as Little Rock District Army Engineers continue ground survey work for a 10-mile long canal which will connect the Arkansas and White Rivers in the vicinity of Arkansas Post in Arkansas County. The work is part of a preliminary location survey for the canal. Engineers said actual construction of the canal may start late next year or early in 1963.

The move came as 17 Freedom Riders planned to leave Los Angeles, Calif., for Jackson, Miss. Douglas A. Williams of Los Angeles will head the group, about equally divided between Negroes and white persons.

By BOB HARING

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Four so-called Freedom Riders each were fined $500 and sentenced to six months in jail today by a municipal judge who rejected their constitutional rights.

Municipal Judge Quinn Glover lectured the "riders" for their bus-riding assault on Little Rock and castigated those who would "aggravate our people and our situation here."

Then, he told the "riders"—two Negroes and two white persons—he would suspend his judgment if they would quit their bus-riding integration assault on the South and go home.

The four accepted Glover's offer and said they would go home. Glover instructed police to see that they follow through. They had spent two nights and one day in jail awaiting trial rather than post bond of $500 each.

Glover assailed the crowd of 300 which gathered at a bus station for the arrival of the riders Monday night. Within minutes, the "riders" were arrested by police when they refused to leave the waiting room.

The judge said the actions of the "Freedom Riders" amounted to "waving a red flag in the face of our people." He said Arkansians are debating how to accept changes that are occurring and asked the "riders" to "give our people time to adjust to new circumstances."

The "riders" were permitted to go to the homes of friends here. They were instructed to notify police when they are ready to leave so officers can witness the departure.

The Rev. B. Elton Cox, 30, of St. Louis, Negro field secretary for the Congress of Racial Equality, was the only "rider" to testify. He told the court the crowd was orderly but he had to push his way through to the waiting room.

The others convicted were Bliss Ann Malone, 23, St. Louis Negro teacher; Mrs. Janet Reintz, 23, white New York housewife, and the Rev. John C. Raines, 27, white pastor of Setauket, N.Y., Methodist Church.

Police testified they made the arrests because they felt the "riders" presented a threat to the waiting room.

Police Chief R. E. Glascock blamed advance publicity for the "riders" troubles. He said Negroes had used the white waiting room at the bus station for at least three years without incident.

The four defendants gave the court no immediate decision on their plans. They spent two nights and one day in jail waiting their trial rather than post a $500 bond each.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four "Freedom Riders" arrested in the first bus-riding assault on Little Rock, Ark., have chosen to stay in jail until their trial rather than go free on bond.

They are scheduled for a Municipal Court hearing today. Their attorney, Thad Williams, a Negro, asked Judge Quinn Glover to delay the case one day to give him time to prepare a defense.

Bond for the four, arrested Monday night while a crowd of 300 ringed a bus station, was set at $500, but Williams said they would not seek release.

Jailed were the Rev. B. Elton Cox, 30, of St. Louis, Negro field secretary for the Congress of Racial Equality; Bliss Ann Malone, 23, St. Louis Negro teacher; Janet Reintz, 23, a New York housewife, and the Rev. John C. Raines, 27, white pastor of Setauket, N.Y., Methodist Church.

At Shreveport, La., the Justice Department filed suit charging the illegal removal of nearly 4,000 Negroes from voting rolls in Louisiana's Ouachita Parish County. The move brought a promise of resistance from parish officials at Monroe, La.

The complaint asked U.S. District Court to restore the Negroes to the registration rolls, and requested the registration of other eligible Negroes.

Two Negroes staged Jackson, Mississippi's first lunch counter sit-in in the midst of a concentrated effort to crack Mississippi's segregation barriers.

The move came as 17 Freedom Riders planned to leave Los Angeles, Calif., for Jackson, Miss. Douglas A. Williams of Los Angeles will head the group, about equally divided between Negroes and white persons.

Alarm Missile Successful, Crosses Russia

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP)—The United States today fired into a record 1,450-mile-high orbit — the first missile alarm satellite to pass over Russia.

The orbit altitude was a surprise — and a pleasant one. The best Air Force had hoped for was about 500 miles. Previous high for a U.S. satellite was about 300 miles.

High altitude benefits the effectiveness of Midas' detection system, the Air Force said, because it permits a larger scanning area.

Midas III is circling the globe once every 2 hours and 40 minutes. The orbit is approximately circular, just what was ordered.

The orbit was achieved by re-starting the satellite's engine over Africa for a brief burst that increased altitude and made the orbit more circular.

The satellite, after a series of disappointing delays, roared aloft at 8:12 a.m. from this Navy space base and into a polar orbit that will carry it repeatedly over Soviet territory.

The first pass over Russia will be the third, about 7 hours and 20 minutes after launch.

Midas III is pioneering a satellite series aimed at giving nearly instant warning of hostile missile firings. In its nose is an infrared eye which can sense heat from the exhaust of a missile blasting off hundreds of miles below.

The second stage was boosted by the same Atlas rocket that flizzed on the launch pad last Monday after days of postponements caused by unexplained technical troubles.

Midas and its sister satellite, the camera-carrying Samos, are designed as space-age replacements for the U2 spy plane shot down over Russia more than a year ago.

A Midas network would almost double the 15-minute warning time possible with ground-based radar. Midas can track a rocket until the engine burns out—about five minutes. Then radar of the Ballistic Missile Early Warning System can take over and computers can give a quick fix on the missile's target.

Plans called for Midas to get its first look at Soviet territory within three hours; to cross within 12 hours above Russia's big missile bases in the Ural Mountains.

The Air Force hoped Midas as a test could try to detect planned launchings from nearby Vandenberg Air Force Base and from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Early Midas shots are pioneering a proposed network of military satellites able to flash an alarm to this country seconds after the launching of a missile anywhere in the world.

Since one Midas can scan only part of the earth, it to 12 will be needed.

Neither of the two previous Midas shots was fully successful. The first, Feb. 26, 1960, failed to orbit. The second, on the following May 24, orbited but its radio failed. Engineers never learned whether its detection system worked.

NLR Approves and Issues

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Development of Maumelle Ordnance Works as an industrial park was approved by North Little Rock residents who Tuesday voted 2,337 to 1,674 for a $1 million revenue bond issue to finance its purchase.

Price of the World War II facility, now owned by Perry Equipment Co. of Philadelphia, would be $800,000. The remainder of the bonds would be kept in reserve to develop the area for industry.

Sale of the bonds will be considered at a special session of the City Council Monday.

Mayor W. F. Luman said it was hoped the bonds could be retired by revenue from the sale and lease of industrial sites at the 5,300-acre facility. Excess revenue from the city electric department also would be pledged toward retiring the bonds.

Hope's Junior Legion team barely edged past Gordon here last night by an 8 to 7 score. It was close throughout with Hope scoring two in the 9th for the win.

Walks helped John Hooton, T. B. Roberts and Ray Murphy score in the first five innings. Hope scored three runs in the fifth with Burke, Parris and Moore crossing the plate. Wayne Camp and Danny Key scored in the 9th for the victory.

Murphy was the big man for Hope with a triple and a double. Key got two singles while Burke, Duke, Camp and Robinson hit safely. In his second win Robinson whiffed seven, and gave up only two hits after relieving Burke in the fifth.

Oakland, Calif.: Dr. E.A. Williams, Santa Barbara, Calif.
Passengers said they were alerted by the pilot, Capt. John Grosso of Denver, 10 minutes before the crash that something was the matter with the hydraulics system, an important element in the brakes.
There was a strange mixture of quiet calm and anguished desperation when the plane touched the runway, then skidded off, crossed 100 yards of field and burst into huge billows of flame when the landing gear crumpled on the protruding strip of a concrete taxiway being constructed nearby.

John Byrne of Omaha, a surviving passenger, escaped from the jetliner unaware that anyone had been hurt. But Lyle Oreck, 66, Phoenix, Ariz., said it was "horrible, horrible."

Byrne said a stewardess sitting alongside him got the door open immediately and helped passengers escape. Sally Whipple, 47, La Jolla, Calif., also praised an unidentified stewardess.

"I don't know who she was," Mrs. Whipple said, "but she stayed in the plane pushing passengers down the escape chute and ignoring the fire in her clothing."

Joe Throsky, a UAF mechanic, was among the first to reach the burning plane. Passengers said he saved several lives as he ran into the flames, helping the injured out.

A vice president of Stanley Aviation Corp. of Denver, J. L. Ryan, said, "I just happened to look out of the personnel office when I saw the plane come in. Either it lost part of its right landing gear or blew its right tires.

"It hit the runway and did a 180-degree turn. Dirt rose at least 70 feet high, then I saw flames soar above the dirt."

Wadruff Electric Cooperative now has authority to provide electric power to its own headquarters here.

Residents of Forrest City voted 375 to 28 Tuesday to allow the 70-acre site occupied by the co-op to withdraw from city control.

The area was annexed by the city 18 months ago and as a part of the municipality was served by Arkansas Power & Light Co.

which provides electricity to the city under a lease agreement.

The co-op had promised that if voters approved the withdrawal it would make available a $200,000 loan to developers of Lake St. Francis, on Crowley's Ridge near here.

[PINK AIR; A PROGRESS REPORT]

A FINA ATTENDANT IS TRUSTWORTHY, LOYAL, HELPFUL, FRIENDLY, COURTEOUS, KIND, OBEDIENT, CHEERFUL, THRIFTY, BRAVE, CLEAN, AND BOY, CAN HE PUMP GAS!

What has happened up till now:

Fina, an alert young oil company, is going all-out to pioneer the additive of the future, the secret ingredient which will color the air in your tires. Everything else connected with your car is chock-full of additives already: only tire air remains; it is the last frontier, the additive Cimarron.

*Hence, our crash program, The Fina Five Year Plan. If all goes well we should be able to crack the additive barrier on May 12, 1966, give or take a few days, and offer you Pink Air® (pink is Fina's, the other companies will have to settle for orange, chartreuse, purple, etc.).

Mind you, we are not going to promise miracles of performance. All we can guarantee for Pink Air at this time is (a) it will make the inside of your tires prettier; and (b) it will be an additive, and after all that is the important thing, isn't it?

Now, in our last ad we offered to send you a free sample of what Pink Air will look like; actually a pink balloon, but when you blow it up regular air looks like Premium Pink. Several people wrote in.

Now go on with the story:

EVER since then people, especially little people, have been asking at Fina stations for pink balloons. Our stations don't give away balloons because:

1. Parents get enough pressure from kids already without us adding to it. We want you to drive into a Fina station of your own free will; not because a child is fussing for a pink balloon.
2. It just might interfere with our real job: taking care of your car. You know, if you asked us for a balloon we'd go back into the station and get it and in the process we might forget to check the tires. Not that we always remember anyway; everybody has his days.

Speaking of service, the reason you get so much more of it free at a gas station than at any other kind of store is very simple: Getting your car gassed is about as much fun as getting your pants pressed while you wait. In view of this you might wonder why you pay higher taxes on gasoline than you do on entertainment. Or luxuries; the tax on gasoline is steeper than the tax on diamonds. But we digress.

The sad truth is nobody wants to go to a service station; they go because they have to.

So we give you service to make you feel more kindly toward us. As a matter of fact, most of our stock in trade is free, too: road maps, water, windshield wipes, air, how far is it to the next town, battery water, rest rooms, & etc., etc. Just ask the man.

For anything but pink balloons.

However, we'll be happy to mail you one. The balloon will have a Fina emblem on it so the next time you see a Fina station you'll recognize it. And if it's on your side of the road so you don't have to make a U-turn through traffic and there aren't six cars waiting and you need gas or something, please stop in. Our products are exactly as good as the best.

Boyd Finally Lands Job In New Show

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP)—After a 10-month stand on a production called "Waiting for Cleo," Stephen Boyd has finally gone to work.

Boyd is starring as "the Inspector," first of Mark Robson's Red Lion productions for 20th Century-Fox. I find the Irishman doing a chase sequence along an Amsterdam canal, only a block or two from the last home of Anne Frank.

When he caught his breath, Boyd expressed his joy to be working—and in a suit, not a tunic. His last date was waiting to play Marc Antony in "Cleopatra." And waiting. And waiting.

"I reported for the picture in May of 1960," he said. "Never was any actor so prepared for a role. I had studied Antony from every possible angle, reading everything about him I could lay my hands on."

For three months, he did nothing but tests.

The company tried to film outdoor scenes on the immense sets that had been built outside London, but the English winter descended. Fog, windstorms, downpours—you name it, they had it. "We got one usable scene—only," Boyd said.

During all this time he saw little of Cleopatra, she being the fabulous invalid, Elizabeth Taylor.

Finally the wintry winds triumphed; production of "Cleopatra" was suspended.

"That was on Dec. 5," Boyd calculated. "The following day I was in Palm Springs, lying in the sun. And that was the last I ever heard from 'Cleopatra.'"

Boyd remained in California and bought a home in Sunnyvale. When Producer Robson proposed "The Inspector," a thriller of 1940 Europe, Boyd had trenchcoat, was willing to travel—to Amsterdam, London and Tangiers.

Phone Firm Seeks Expansion

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Perco Telephone Co. asked the Arkansas Public Service Commission Monday for authority to borrow up to $555,000 to improve and expand facilities in Perry County.

Perco said the money would be borrowed from the Rural Electrification Administration at 2 per cent interest.

Perco serves customers in Perry, Perryville, Bigelow, Pourche, Adona, Houston and adjacent rural areas.

Water Transport Subject to Tax

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A three-judge federal court today ruled that a water transportation company which handles merchandise at the Mississippi River port in Helena is subject to the state's property tax.

The opinion went to Earl Berry, director of the tax division of the Arkansas Assessment Coordination Department.

In other opinions today, the attorney general's office ruled that city policemen cannot serve arrest warrants outside city limits unless they are appointed constables and held that state law makes no provisions for property tax exemptions on automobiles owned by disabled veterans.

Communists Bring World Troubles

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Communists act, the West reacts. It's been that way for years. It's that way now. It was true under Presidents Truman and Eisenhower. It's true today under President Kennedy.

It raises a question: When will the West take the initiative to put the Communists on the defensive, give them the miseries?

First it was Greece and Turkey, then Indochina, then Czechoslovakia, then the Berlin blockade, then Korea, then Formosa, then Berlin again then Cuba and riots in Latin America and now again it's Berlin.

In each case the Communists called the tune and the West danced, trying to offset them. The West has created no crises for Russia or Red China. It's been the other way around.

1. Right after the big war Russia stirred up civil war in Greece. The Communists got half of Indochina. The result of all this: The United States set up Southeast Asian alliances to try to save the rest of the area from the Reds.

3. In 1947—when Bulgaria, Romania, Poland, Hungary had over-

ful but once and for all threw off American isolationism, put the United States neck-deep in Europe's problems, shaped the future.

2. Indochina began to fall apart in 1946, although no one realized it at the time. Indochinese, led by Communists and sick of French colonial rule, began civil war. It lasted eight years. The French fought a half-hearted war, wouldn't let go.

In the end the United States helped the French. Too late. The Communists got half of Indochina. The result of all this: The United States set up Southeast Asian alliances to try to save the rest of the area from the Reds.

Truman reacted with the Truman plan—aid to Greece and Turkey—which not only was successful but once and for all threw off American isolationism, put the United States neck-deep in Europe's problems, shaped the future. 2. stood, took over Cuba, began his anti-Americanism.

This realization of the depths of discontent and Communist penetration among its southern neighbors finally forced the United States into thinking of giving aid on a big scale, not in dribbles.

8. As a result of all the Communist aggressiveness around the world this country in the years since 1949—when it signed its European alliance—has made similar alliances around the world in the hope it might be a dike against the Reds.

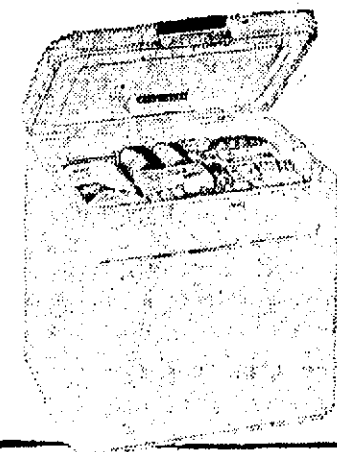

9. Now once again Khrushchev threatens Berlin, reinstates his six-month deadline. Now once again the West is in a tizzy, seeming unsure of itself, trying to figure how it should react, what it should do, how far it should go.

Sasha Vows Are Spoken
Miss Marye Alice Kidd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Kidd of Hope, became the bride of Duane Leslie Sasha, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin L. Sasha, also of Hope, in a double ring ceremony Saturday, July 8, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Marriage vows were spoken in the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses with Eugene Shuster officiating.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace and slipper satin featuring a bouffant skirt accented with unpressed pleats swept into a chapel train. Her fingertip illusion veil fell in tiers from a crown of pearls. Her bouquet was a cascade of Fleur-de-lis and Sweetheart roses.

Miss Joyce Shuster of Quincy, Ill., was maid of honor. She wore a blue lace sheath with white accessories and her flowers were carnations.

Mitchell Kidd of Spade, Texas, brother of the bride, served as best man.

Tall baskets of white gladioli, flanked on either side with greenery in graduated heights, white potted mums and an archway of pink carnations marked the place of the ceremony.

Carnation corsages were worn by the mother of the bride and the mother of the groom.

That First Love!

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I am in love with my teacher. Having graduated last month I shan't see him any more. This breaks my heart. Should I let him know how I feel — "Not Here"

Dear "Not Here": It is not uncommon for girls (and boys) to fall in a big way for someone old enough to be their father or mother. Adults usually dismiss these first crushes as mere puppy love to be taken no more seriously than growing pains. But the youngsters suffer just as much as if the so-called crush was a grand passion. I know, for I went through the same painful experience when I was a teenager. Try to see this adoration of your teacher for what it is — nature's device for weaning you away from your parents. To confess your love to the teacher would make you ridiculous and be exceedingly embarrassing to him. Keep your feelings to yourself and know that this is only a phase in the process of your development.

Dear Helen: Will you settle a dispute When a son is given his father's and grandfather's first name, isn't he considered the "third," even though his middle name be different Mr friend's son, father of the baby, says no. I say yes. Who is right The question may sound inconsequential but, if not cleared up, could disrupt a friendship. —C.C.

Dear C.C.: Ordinarily this question would go to the Emily Post department but, since a friendship is at stake, I'll answer it. Middle names are of secondary importance and apt to be lost in the shuffle. Only the first name really counts legally. Therefore, the baby would be identified as "So-and-so, the third," to distinguish him from his father and grandfather. I was christened Helen Edminster Worden but have long since dropped the Edminster.

Dear Helen: My boy friend and I have called it a day in order to avoid a family and neighborhood feud. It's about breaking our hearts. My mother doesn't like him; his mother doesn't like me; the whole neighborhood hates him. It's all because of his past record. He did wrong but has reformed. Because of me, he is determined to really be somebody. I love him for that. Now that we've parted I'm afraid he'll slip back. Why can't my mother let me lead my own life —Desperate Dear Desperate: Faith in another er is a very fine thing but nine times out of 10, the boy with the bad reputation will pull the girl down. It rarely happens that she lifts him up. If your boy friend has any character at all, he will overcome public opinion by sincerely striving to be somebody, independent of you. Your mother's concern is justifiable, being responsible for your welfare until you legally become of age. And she loves you!

National Loop Captures the All-Star Game

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Disgruntled American League All-Stars, glad to have escaped wind-ravaged Candlestick Park without having been swept into San Francisco Bay, agreed today the playing conditions were the worst they had ever encountered.

Maybe their 5-1 10-inning defeat Tuesday by the Nationals had something to do with it.

Roger Maris, the New York muscle man who leads both majors with his 33 home runs, and Rocky Colavito, Detroit's fence-buster, were the most outspoken of the players who felt the main trouble with Candlestick Park was that it was built alongside the bay instead of under it. Even the triumphant National Leaguers had nothing but unkind words to say of the Giants' home grounds.

For seven innings, Candlestick Park's heralded wind was only a myth as far as the players and the 44,115 customers were concerned. Consequently, it was a contest of finesse, dignity and occasional brilliance. With Milwaukee's Warren Spahn perfect and Cincinnati's Bob Purkey near-perfect, and Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente leading the attack against New York's Whitey Ford and Washington's Dick Donovan with a triple and sacrifice fly, the Nationals surged into a 2-0 lead after the fourth.

The Americans got one run back in the sixth when Minnesota's Harmon Killebrew slammed a home run, their first hit, off Cincinnati's pitcher. That's the way things stood until the eighth when the wind, like a smirking villain waiting in the wings, suddenly came swirling from the bay to bedevil the pitchers, fiddlers, batters and even the umpires and turn an unspectacular but uniformly played game into a spectacle.

In the last three innings, the NL stars committed five of the game's seven errors. In addition, San Francisco pitcher Stu Miller was charged with a balk, New York catcher Elston Howard was charged with a balk, and New York's first baseman, Mickey Vernon, was charged with a balk.

guilty of a passed ball and Cincinnati outfielder Frank Robinson was hit by a pitch. As if that wasn't enough to make the record turnout here wonder whether they were watching little instead of big leaguers, a National League (shortstop Maitry Wills) was guilty of interfering with runner Nellie Fox in the ninth and Fox himself was accused of failing to touch third base on his way home in the same play. The latter claim was rejected by the umpires.

The National appeared to have the victory, fourth in a row over the American and fifth in the last six games, all wrapped up when pinch hitter George Altman, Chicago Cubs' outfielder, hammered a home run off Boston's Mike Fierstein in the eighth. But in the ninth, with Pittsburgh's Roy Face pitching, the Americans tied it at 3-3 on a double by Norm Cash, singles by Al Kaline and Maris, and an error by third baseman Ken Boyer on Colavito's grounder.

By the tenth the swirling winds were blowing dust into the players' eyes and caps off their heads. Miller, with his flusterball doing tricks in the wind, fanned the first two batters but walked Fox. Kaline bounced to Boyer but the third baseman's throw sailed past first and Fox scored with the tie-breaking run with Kaline racing all the way to third.

Henry Aaron opened the bottom of the tenth with a single off Baltimore's Hoyt Wilhelm, reached second on a passed ball and scored when Willie Mays bounced a double over third baseman Howser's head. After Robinson was hit by a pitch, Clemente singled Willie home to end the game.

Manager Paul Richards of the American League said the winds made Candlestick Park one of the worst playing fields in the major leagues but he declined to use it as an alibi.

"The winds were just as bad for one club as for the other," he said.

Youths Play for Junior State Title

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The final 18 holes of the 16 and 17-year-old brackets of the Arkansas State Golf Association's junior tournament will be played today, along with the competition for the open junior title.

Bill Martin of Benton fired an 80 over the first 18 holes Tuesday to take the lead in the 16-year-old group, while Charles Collins of Texarkana had a 75 to lead the 17-year-old bracket.

Youths in the 10 through 15-year-old divisions wound up play Tuesday. But the two top scorers in the 14 and 15-year-old groups are eligible to compete for the open junior crown.

Mike Mitchell of Texarkana won the 15-year-old bracket with a 73 and Hank Newell of Little Rock took the 14-year division with a 74.

Winning the division for 10-year-olds was Charles Watkins of Fort Smith City with 47. Larry Taylor of Little Rock had a 50 to win the 11-year-old division. Contestants in the 10-11 groups play nine holes.

Ross McCaskill of Little Rock won the 12-year bracket with a 90 and Steve Morrison of Little Rock had an 82 to win the 13-year-old bracket. Contestants in the 12-13 brackets shot 18 holes.

Pender Drops Title to Terry Downs

By GEOFFREY MILLER

LONDON (AP) — Paul Pender, deposed from his share of the world middleweight championship prepared today to go home to Boston to see his new baby daughter and start working to get back his title.

Terry Downes, 25, the battling Briton who served in the U.S. Marines, whipped him before 12,000 wildly cheering fans in Wembley Indoor Stadium Tuesday night. Pender retired with a cut over his left eye at the end of the ninth round.

There is an agreement for a return bout in America within 90 days. It is likely to be in Boston, but Downes' manager, Sam Burns said since both men suffered cuts there might be a slight delay.

Pender, 31, in his dressing room after the fight, scarcely had time to think about his defeat. The boxer from Brookline, Mass., was surrounded by friends congratulating him on the news that his wife had given birth to a daughter in Boston.

The news reached ringside half-way through the fight. Pender's seconds kept the news from him until the fight was over.

"Downes is a great fighter," Pender said. "He would beat Gene Fullmer."

Fullmer is recognized as world champion in most of the United States. The crown which Downes took from Pender is recognized in New York, Massachusetts and Europe.

Pender had the better of the ninth round, although blood streamed from his left eye. At the end of the round referee Ike Powell talked with Pender in his corner and then raised Downes hand in victory.

Pender admitted afterward that the cut was superficial.

"But I couldn't go on," he said.

Movies, Fight Business Get Together

By JOE MOOSHIL

Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — The fight game and the movie house — a couple of businesses which have been declining since the advent of television—got together Monday night and came up with a successful showing.

Using the facilities of the recently shut-down Vogue Theater, promoter Joe Kellman's boxing card, featuring former welterweight champion Virgil Atkins, drew a paid crowd of 1,003 with a net gate of $2,750.

Before the show started an accordionist played old favorites in the plush-carpeted lobby.

Of course, the candy counter was open and the popcorn machine was popping away.

Inside the air-conditioned theater, the carpeting was taken up because no smoking rules don't mean a thing to most fight fans.

The ring was set on the stage

A Short Short Story © 1961 by NEA, Inc.

King dropped to one knee.

MURDER A MILE AWAY

By LEE PRIESTLEY

King Mullane heard someone behind him in the empty auditorium but he did not take his eyes from the stage where Karen Carstairs rehearsed with Tom, her husband.

"Tom's not the actor you are," came in an undertone.

King turned then. It was Joe Phillips, the district game warden in the seat behind him. Stage smitten, Joe often watched the Little Theatre rehearsals.

Tom was stiff and awkward. It had been King's idea for Tom to appear in this play so town gossip should not couple King's and Karen's names.

Joe settled back with a groan. "I ought to go home. I'm dead tired. Everybody's got to get ready for the opening of the pheasant season. I've got more territory than three men could handle. If I hadn't thought up a good leg-saver—"

The roar of the gun bounced around the walls. On stage, Tom Carstairs had dropped to one knee. King screamed. Tom ran to her. King and Joe leaped in a crashing of upthrust seats.

"Anybody hit?" Joe asked raggedly.

"Blanks," King said over his shoulder. As he ran down the aisle a monstrous plan began to take form in his mind.

Next morning King and Tom moved across the empty stubble fields stretching to the hills a mile away. No one in sight. By delaying their start King had made sure most of the hunters would have their limit and be gone.

King ducked smoothly between the wires of the fence, then turned to Tom. "Better hand me your gun," he said. "You're clumsy with firearms, remember?"

Tom handed his shotgun carefully through the fence. With equal care, King took it. There would be no finger prints. They both wore gloves against the morning's cold. Cold fingers were always clumsy. Joe Phillips, remembering Tom's awkwardness the night before would be a good disinterested witness. Karen would get Tom's money and, after a suitable interval, King would get Karen.

Tom took his time coming through the wires of the fence. King waited patiently with the shotgun in his hands.

As Tom bent between the wires, King dropped to a knee. The blast ranged upward at a convincing angle.

The shot hit the target. A look of surprise crossed Tom's face as he was struck down. A fleeting expression, ending with death.

King placed the gun by the fence, in a position from which investigators could draw their own conclusion that King had been clumsy and that an unfortunate disaster had taken place.

It was an extra bit of luck that a car came a few minutes later for King to flag down. Joe Phillips was driving it. His voice rough with emotion, King told Joe how it had happened.

Joe stared at him for a long moment. There was almost a look of admiration in his eyes. "I'm a sucker for a good performance. I'd believe you—as you'd planned I would—if I hadn't actually seen you shoot Tom."

"You couldn't have seen," King's voice was a croak. "The fields were empty for a mile around."

"I guess I didn't finish telling you last night about the leg-saver I thought up," Joe said. "I park up there on the hill and use binoculars. That way I can spot a game bag that's stuffed too full of pheasants. And that way I spotted murder a mile away."

Joe looked at King for a moment, then he turned and drove off.

King looked at his watch. It was 10:15. He had time to spare.

TV Finally Gives Bonus to the Bard

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI)—Television gave the bard a bonus Sunday: a show of his own.

William Shakespeare, the most honored playwright of the past TV season, had no trouble holding his own as the star of CBS-TV's "Accent."

What's that? Did someone say, "who cards?" For those who may still regard Willy as a writer who never could make it on TV as one who appeals only to a tiny audience, may I remind them of the following facts:

The TV public, when last summoned to a nation election by the editors of the TV Guide Magazine, chose "Macbeth" as "the best single dramatic program" of the 1960-61 season.

And the people who comprise the TV industry saw things the same way. They sprinkled five "Emmys" upon the "Macbeth" film, topping off the outpouring with the "TV Program of the Year" title.

So you see, Shakespeare has got to be TV's fair-haired boy. He appeals to everyone. Right? In fact, I'm just about ready to accuse CBS of playing follow-the-leader by presenting this rating buster about "sure-thing" Shakespeare.

But seriously, as Danny Thomas once said — or was it Henry Youngman? — I enjoyed what there was of the half-hour "Accent." For the first in a series of summertime visits to European cultural landmarks, "Accent" aimed its cameras at the Royal Shakespeare Theatre at Stratford-on-Avon, England.

The visit to the world-famous Shakespeare festival permitted some bright conversationalists to oscillate across the Shakespeare-scope. There were sections of the program devoted to Stratford's history and to a lot of acting from "As You Like It," but I was sorry producer Bill Kobin had not time left for the cameras to tour the insides of the festival theater.

The discussions, guided by Alexander Kendrick, took place on the lawn outside the theater and gave us a chance to hear how Christopher Plummer, Vanessa Redgrave and Peter Hall, the 30-year-old director at Stratford, feel about the bard.

Hall, the sprightliest of the talkers, seemed to have dedicated himself to the worthy task of eliminating boredom and bores, both off-stage and on, from the theater. He appeared anxious to help actors and audiences get new kicks out of Shakespeare by ridding the plays of lingering traces of Victorian age interpretations.

But Hall didn't seem to be sold on his summertime audiences. "In the summer," he said, "we rise on ABC-TV."
